WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, June 3rd, 1905.

Editor Press:—

The President has finally announced that he will not call Congress in special session until after the November elections and he now expects to convene the extraordinary session on November 13. There are many of the leaders in the Republican party, however, who believe that this decision sounds the death knell of the special session and that eventually the President will be entirely dissuaded from the idea of calling any special session. The argument used with the President to induce him to abandon his first idea was that he could occomplish no good by calling the Congress in session at a time that would prove objectionable to all the members, that as a result they would all come to Washington in a surly or sullen mood and would merely waste time instead of getting down to business in advance of the regular session. The President has heeded this argument to the extent above outlined and now the opponents of a special session are ready with arguments for further delay although they may not present them until later in the summer.

The argument which is expected to dissuade the President from calling any special session is this: By calling Congress together on November 13, there will be at most but three weeks gained before the date on which the national legislature would meet by law; Congress will never again consent however, to remain in session right up the hour when the regular session must commence, for the reason that when this was done a year ago the members lost the extra mileage which they regard as their special perquisite whenever they meet in special session. For that reason, it will be urged, Congress will certainly adjourn at least a week in advance of December 4, the date on which the regular session must begin, and so only two weeks would be gained. Then the President will be asked if in his judgment the two weeks gained will compensate for the $100,000 which Congress is certain to take for itself for mileage and the old argument that no member of Congress wants a special session at all will be revamped and so the special session of 1905 will, in the judgment of those best fitted to judge, have been added to the long list of things "gone glimmering."

With the purpose of making good his assurance of the President Senator Aldrich immediately thereafter secured from the Democratic leader, Senator Gorman, a pledge that if the House would send over a tariff bill during the special fall session the Democrats in the upper house would permit it to come to a vote before the date for the beginning of the regular session. Of course, now that the President has deferred the convening of the special session until so late a date there is no chance for the Democrats to redeem Mr. Gorman's pledge, while the Speaker's argument against opening the tariff question on the eve of an election has gained added force. The "stand patters" are therefore doubtless correct in their assertion that, while the President has in no way departed from his original conviction that some readjustment of the tariff schedules to changed conditions is essential to a square deal, he has dealt tariff readjustment in the next session a death blow by his adandonment of October 16 as the date on which to convene the special session.

The Observer.

If a public holiday or church festival is to be celebrated at all the celebration should be of such a character as to emphasize fittingly the principle or the event which the holiday is intended to commemorate. Thousands of people observe Thanksgiving Day in a manner of which a pagan would be ashamed. A devout pagan would at least offer a libation to his gods in acknowledgement of his sense of dependence upon them; but by a large number of Americans the festival is celebrated in a manner totally devoid of any religious observance. The Christmas festival has often been celebrated in a manner which makes much of Santa Claus and nothing at all of the Nativity of Christ.

The approach of Independence Day, the first and greatest of our national holidays, makes timely a plea, not only that the day should be observed, but, also, that it should be observed in a proper manner. If the day is to be merely an opportunity for the juvenile males to make the small hours of the morning hideous with the explosion of giant fire crackers, or if it is to be made chiefly an occasion for colossal drinking, we should be better off without an Independence Day. A parade, such as we had last year, is very good in its place, as are also a properly conducted ball game in the afternoon and a display of fireworks in the evening; but none of these should be regarded as constituting the core of a Fourth of July observance. They are but the accidents and trappings of a proper observance. The real core of the Fourth of July celebration should be a gathering of the population, old and young, in and about the park pavilion, or in some other suitable place, to listen to the reading of the Declaration of Independence and to one or more patriotic addresses, interspersed with songs and instrumental music suitable to the occasion. This is not an innovation that the Observer is suggesting, but simply a return to a time honored, but lately neglected, custom. There is certainly in our community sufficient spirit and abundance of talent to make the successful carrying out of a proper Fourth of July program possible.

Automobile Accident.

Last Sunday morning, about nine o'clock, Mr. E. J. Smith, accompanied by his father and little son, were enjoying a short spin up Rich Valley, when a spring under the forward part of the machine suddenly snapped. The automobile partly tipped, throwing out Mr. Smith, Sr., and the little lad. The boy escaped with a few scratches, while the elderly gentleman was considerably bruised and shaken up, although no bones were broken.

The accident happened opposite Howard Co's hardwood mill and Jas. Farrell, Chas. Auchu and others hastened to the scene and assisted in righting the mix up. Mr. Smith, Sr., is about eighty years of age and it was feared he had been seriously injured but at this writing he is doing nicely, although quite lame. The venerable gentleman says he has seen the day when he could have cleared the machine before the dump took place. We forgot to mention the fact that Mrs. A. M Mattison supplied the restoratives, which came in mighty handy and at the right time.

Summer Health and Comfort.

The season of hot weather is a trying time for most every one, particularly the housewife, upon whom depends in large measure the well being and good nature of her family. Hot weather health and comfort is discussed with many practical recommendations by Isabel Gordan Curtis in the July Delineator, the paper being a chapter in 'The Making of a Homewife." Other seasonable suggestions are given in "A Snow Ball Luncheon," illustrated; "Milk as a Food," "Fruit Fantasies," and "New ways of Serving Strawberries," containing the recipes for many refreshing Summer preparations. Plans for a Summer camp and housefurnishing ideas are other features of this number of the magazine and are of particular interest for their timeliness.

Notice of Removal.

R. Seger & Co, who for the past 23 years conducted the well known Merchant Tailoring establishment opposite the M. E. church, have removed to the store of R Seger & Son, next to Bank, where Mr. Seger has consolidated the two establishments in order to give his business closer attention. His tailoring business will be carried on as usual, also cleaning and pressing. Having added a line of the celebrated W. L Douglas shoes he is able to fit his customers from top to bottom with the best to be had.

The room vacated to let. 14 3t.

Outing Party.

Frank H. Dodson, Carl Blair, Vernon Evans and Edward Extrom, of this place, left for Cauley Run Tuesday morning, where they will "camp" for several days, or as long as their grub holds out.

Greater Emporium Meeting Postponed.

The Greater Emporium meeting advertised for Monday evening was postponed owing to the "big wind storm," although several parties interested in the question were in attendance. This question is up to the tax-payers and property owners of the territory surrounding Emporium. Let the question be carefully discussed. Our columns are open to all.

Shawmut Gets Control.

Coal mines and personal property of the Riverview Coal Mining company, with an appraised value of $76,000 were sold in bankruptcy court at Buffalo on Saturdry last, for $40,500 to Frank S. Smith, of the Shawmut Coal and Coke company. The Shawmut company owns the mines adjacent to the Riverview company at Riverview, Armstrong county, Pa. Mr. Smith is a stockholder of the Shawmut company.

In Poor Health.

Thomas Gallagher, for many years agent for Pennsylvania railroad at this place, has been in poor health for some time, but kept at his post of duty. Last Saturday his condition becoming so serious and painful, Dr. DeLong, (Mr. Gallagher's brother-in-law) advised that he at once go to Philadelphia and consult a specialist. Accompanied by Dr. DeLong, he took Erie mail Saturday night for Philadelphia. Mr. Gallagher has been a faithful guardian of the Pennsylvania railroad company's interests at this place for many years, always at his post of duty. He is entitled to and has earned a good vacation and should take it.

Battle With a Trout.

Robt. C. Dodson, the druggist, is an expert angler and it is seldom that he comes home without a good catch of the "beauties." One day last week he returned from one of his favorite fishing spots, looking as though he had been in battle, his nose being scratched, pole and line somewhat demoralized, yet wore a great broad smile. Robt. had been laying for a monster two pound trout, finally catching him. but the fish broke the line from the pole and made for deep water. Robt. tumbled, headforemost, down a steep embankment into the deep water, catching the line and safely landed the big fish, proud as a boy in his first red-top boots.

Eye Specialist.

Prof. W. H. Budine, the well known Eye Specialist, of Binghamton, N. Y., will be at R. H. Hirsch's jewelry store, Emporium, Pa., June 10th. If you can't see well or have headache don't fail to call and see Prof. Budine, as he guarantees to cure all such cases. Lenses ground and fitted in old frames. Eyes tested and examined free. All work guaranteed.

House Painting and Paper Hanging.

Clifton S. Larrabee, who has had two years experience with a leading Philadelphia firm, has located in Emporium and is prepared to contract for house papering and painting. Orders left at M. M. Larrabee's store will receive prompt attention.

16-3t. CLIFTON S. LARRABEE.

May Weather.

The average daily temperature for May was 59.4 degrees, being four tenths degrees colder than 1904, and one degree colder than 1903 The rainfall for May was 1.75 inch being 1½ inch less than 1904 and ¾ inch more than 1903.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange he whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. S. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

DINGER.

Mr. Charles Dinger, brother of Mrs. Ross Overturf, died at the home of his parents, Scottdale, Tuesday last of pulmonary complaint. Deceased was a public school teacher of that place and a young man of exceptional professional ability and of fine character. Mr. and Mrs. Overturf attended the funeral. Mr. Dinger formerly resided here and had many friends in this county who will be pained to learn of his death.

DOW.

The Rev. Mr. Dow and wife, of Rich Valley are sadly afflicted in the death of their daughter, ten years old, from the results of an operation, which occured last Monday evening. The child had been ill for a long time and the operation was decided upon as a last resort and though hopeful of a favorable outcome, her weakened vitality thwarted the prayers and wishes of the fond parents. Preliminary to the removal of the remains to Eagle, N. Y, for interment, services were conducted at the home of the parents in Rich Valley by the Rev. J. M. Robertson, pastor of the Free Methodist Church of town. Mr. Robertson is an old time friend of Mr. Dow and his services on this instance were most timely, tender and helpful.

Mr. and Mrs. Dow have the fullest sympathy of the neighborhood in their affliction.

HECKMAN.

John Heckman, died at his home at Coudersport, May 28th after a short illness with pneumonja, aged 64 years. Mr. Heckman was well known in this county having lived at Sizerville and Four Mile, some years ago, where he was engaged at lumbering. Mr. Heckman went from this county to Coudersport where he engaged in the hotel business, renting the Farmers' Hotel, and afterwards assumed the management of the Thompson House, and from there took charge of the Crittenden house.

The Enterprise says: John, as he was familiarly known, among his many friends, was a good citizen, a kind neighbor and a reliable friend. He was ever ready to respond to calls for his assistance, and never did he shirk what he considered his duty.

Deceased leaves a widow and two small children to mourn their great loss, also four brothers and one sister.

ROSS.

HON. SOLOMON ROSS, aged 82 years, died at his home, at Wharton, Pa., last Tuesday morning, after a long illness. During the morning he laid down for a little rest and when called at 11 o'clock he was discovered to be dead. His funeral takes place to day at Wharton, under the auspices of Emporium Masonic lodge, of which the deceased had been a member since May 27th, 1867.

Judge Ross was for very many years a resident of Cameron county and closely identified with its interests. He served in the position of Associate Judge for five years, with credit to himself and county. About twenty years ago he moved to Potter county and engaged in farming. A large delegation of Emporium Masons left here this morning to attend the funeral.

The late Judge Solomon Ross was elected one of the Associate Judges of Cameron county in 1875.

Chas. W. Rishell's Big Fish.

Chas. W. Rishell went up to Gardeau last week to decorate a few speckled beauties with his new doped flies. Chas. was determined to capture that big blind trout supposed to measure about 24 inches. He armed himself with all the new fangled lines, dope and hooks that Dodson and H. S. Lloyd knew about and failed to land the monster when they last visited the hole. Rishell patiently awaited the appearance of the whale but no fishy would come, not until he lighted his new mown hay pipe. Then up jumped his satanic majesty. Charley was not prepared for the sudden attack and rolled down the old bank, where Noah Parker so often coaxed the big fish into one pool, when he succeeded in snagging against a quince tree and held Mr. five pound trout in check. Fate was against Charley, for the old tree gave away and into the mighty deep did this now exasperated chap go on all fours. "Dog gast your buttons" saidChas., "I will capture you or perish in the attempt. When almost ready to drop his clothes line, to which he had attached Nick Stern's ice tongues, he yelled for Nick who hastened to the scene with his Jersey bull dog. Now it was dog eat fish and fish eat dog for ten minutes, when the big fish grabbed Mr. bull dog and threw him across the creek and made for his happy home in the silent deep. And Chas. lost his fish and dream.

Harry Lloyd, "Bucky" Norris, E. J. Smith and R. C. Dodson have concluded to make a dose of Pittsburg powder and make an effort to defeat the man-fighting fish. When they fail Dick Hirsch and Mike McCarthy will try their charms on the whales. All Parker Run fish had better make for their deepest dives.

Horse and Buggy Recovered.

John L. Johnson has recovered his horse and buggy stolen on May 28th. The horse was left in a livery stable at Falls Creek.

Hotel Sold.

Mr. James B. Hayes has sold his hotel, the Valley House to Mr. Olesen, of Clearfield, Pa. Mr. Olesen expects to take possession in about ten days.

Ladies Aid Society.

Mrs. C. G. Schmidt and Miss Mattie M. Collins left on Wednesday for Johnstown to attend the State Convention of Ladies Aid Society as delegates from this county.

Emmanuel Church.

Next Sunday being the festival of Whitsunday, there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at the mid-day service, 10:30 a. m.

The early service a 7:30 a. m., will be omitted.

Big Event at Austin.

David Buckley, of New Warner, reports a big time at Austin, July 4th. The popular policeman, Mr. James Fitzpatrick is down on the program to make a parachute jump. Buckley is booming the great event.

Gone to Canada.

Seymour Hood, Kane; R. A. Cortwright, Brockport, and Jos. L. Wheeler, of Emporium, left Tuesday morning for their silver and lead mines at Georgian Bay, Ont. From all accounts they have struck rich leads.

Childrens' Day.

Childrens' Day will be observed next Sabbath at the Presbyterian Church. A children's preaching service will be held at 10:30 a. m. All the children of the Sabbath School are expected and earnestly desired to be present. At 7:30 p. m., a program of exercises by the children will be given.

Close Call.

Last Thursday night, about 11 o'clock, some of U. A. Palmer's neighbors discovered that his residence was on fire. The alarm was promptly given and after hard work succeeded in extinguishing the fire, which had been started amongst some hard dry wood under the summer kitchen. The interior of the house was injured by smoke. The family had retired for the night when the fire was discovered. The loss we understand, is fully covered by insurance.

Governor Pennypacker Honors This County.

His Excellency Gov. Pennypacker has appointed Hon. Josiah Howard of this county, one of the delegates to attend the Good Roads Convention to be held at Portland, Oregon. This is an honor conferred not only upon Mr. Howard but Cameron county. Our Representative is an enthusiastic supporter of good roads and backs up his opinion with the cash, not hot air.

We hope and believe Mr. Howard will use his good offices to further improve our roads.

Teachers Selected for Next Term.

At a meeting of the School Directors of Emporium Borough held last Monday evening, the following teachers were elected:

Principal, Prof. E. S. Ling.
Asst. Principal, Miss Rumsey.

HIGH SCHOOL.

Miss Marian Larrabee,
Miss Grace Leet,
Miss Rosa Ritchie,
Miss Mame Cleary,
Miss Gertrude Germond,
Miss Lillian Heilman.

EAST WARD SCHOOL.

Miss Augusta Fullford, Sayre, Pa.,
Miss Witman Austin,
Miss Alice Horton,
Miss Florence Ling,
Miss Blanche Ludlam,
Miss Nina Bryan.

Misses Bair, Cummings and Metzger were not applicants for re-election.

The School Board is up against a hard proposition. Both school buildings are crowded to their full capacity, while sixty pupils are located in the City Hall, subject to the pleasure of the Town Council. B Primary room is now crowded, yet there are 48 pupils to be taken care of, with a probability of a still further increase. How to provide another school house is a hard nut to crack, unless the district incurs another debt. The present valuation of the Borough will not raise sufficient money to meet the expenses. How shall it be remedied? A school director suggests that the old Presbyterian church be purchased, at a cost of $1500, and remodeled into two school rooms.

The rapid increase in the population of Emporium certainly calls for a radical change in the long unequal valuation on real estate. More money should be raised for school and Borough purposes and still not inflict a hardship on any of our citizens. Greater Emporium is sure to come and let us be up and doing.

Reception.

Mrs. Jos. Lingle and daughter Miss Nellie were tendered a pleasant reception by their lady friends Tuesday evening, at the Reading Room. They will leave very shortly for Westboro, Wisconsin.

WANTED—Immediately at The New Warner House, one dining room girl, one second cook and one laundry girl.

Chief A. A. McDonald reports the Mountaineer Hose cart considerably damaged while coming back from the fire last Friday night.

The new railrad schedule places two postal clerks at Emporium every day. Of course they like Emporium, but dislike to be laid up away from home.

Emporium now boasts of a number of bang-up stylish turnouts, especially those of Leo Hayes, J. T. Howard, J. W. Norris, Frank Shives and Wiley's.

Sneak thieves made a clean sweep of Postmaster Seger and E. D. White's refrigerators last Saturday night. Some of the eatibles were found at the freight depot—what they could not eat.

A. F. Vogt's new shoe store had a close call to a fire on Saturday. A young lad turned a torch into a paint pail and set fire to same. It was quick work for a time, the benzine and oil becoming ignited. Geo Ritchie burned his hands while setting the paint pails into the street.

The Emporium Furnace, now the leading industry in the county, was first lighted Nov. 26th, 1888, the late C. B. Gould, former editor and publisher of the PRESS, applying the torch. Manager Brady continues to increase the output of the plant, which ranks with the best iron in the state.

C. A. Burdick, af Smethport, went fishing Monday and he caught one trout that he thought was six inches long, but when the game warden came along and measured it, he found it to be a quarter of an inch short. It cost Mr. Burdick $10 and costs. The funny part of it is that Mr. Burdick was one of the men who hired the game warden and to insist that he show no favors to any one. The warden was faithful to his trust.

Parents, when your boy gets a licking at school, don't get your back up and howl about it, but do your Christian duty by giving him one yourself. Have him to understand that he will have no protection for his bad conduct and it will make a good man of him some day. The jails and penitentiaries are full of men whose parents kicked whenever they received punishment at school. Never let your boy realize that you sympathize with him and you will have no trouble with him at school, but the moment he finds he has protection at home for deviltry, then he is almost sure to provoke his teacher and make trouble. Solomon, said whip the way out of them when necessary, and they would be good boys, and when they get old they would do their own likewise.—Kittanning Free Press.

Going South.

G. W. Huntley & Son have taken an extensive timber job at Shirok, Greenbrier county, W. Va., and will leave for that place to-day. They will cut 40,000,000 feet of oak and pine a year and will stock it by railroad.

G. W. Huntley, Jr., will superintend the operations and will move his family to that place in the near future. They will eventually return to Driftwood.—Gazette.

Prepare for the Fourth.

All roads will lead to Emporium on July Fourth and everybody will have a good time. The committee, which meets every Monday evening at Council Room, will be glad to confer with any of our citizens. The program will soon be ready for announcement. However count on a great large day with a parade in the morning and singing and speaking in the opera house; ball game at 2:30 at Keystone Park, with dancing at the pavilion afternoon and evening. In case it should rain the dancing will take place in the opera house.

Watch for the programs.

Impostor Detected.

Chief of Police Frank Mundy noticed a chap enter McDonald's liquor store last Friday and approach the proprietor with a request that he assist him financially, representing that he was an engineer on P. & E., and was contesting for a gold watch with a brother conductor. The Chief watched the lad for a short time when he accosted him, requesting that he present his book. After making all kinds of excuses he finally produced the book, which contained the names of several Renovo parties and one Emporium man who had given the impostor 50c. Seeing that officer Mundy was onto his game he confessed and begged not to be arrested, giving as an excuse that "he was up against it and hungry" Chief gave him a short time to leave town.

Taxing Amusements.

Russia has probably the most curious tax in the world. It is called the "amusement tax," and was instituted a year or two ago to fund an institution for the poor, under the title of the "Empress Marie Foundation." The tax is laid upon every amusement ticket sold, and the managers increase the price accordingly. Already more than 1,000,000 roubles have been raised in that way.

The Kind Voice.

There is no power of love so hard to get and keep as a kind voice. A kind hand is deaf and dumb. It may be rough in flesh and blood, yet do the work of a soft heart, and do it with a soft touch. But there is no one thing that love so much needs as a sweet voice to tell what it means and feels, and it is hard to get it, and keep it in the right tone.

Czar's "Police Dogs."

It is said that at the instance of the czar trained "police dogs" have been purchased from Brunswick, Germany, where the animals are said to be educated for this work in a manner far superior to any other locality. The animals secured by the Russian government were designed especially for the service of protecting the czar.

"Breeches Bible" for King.

Roumania would appear to be the most illiterate country in Europe. The last census shows that in a population of about 6,000,000, nearly 4,000,000 can neither read nor write, and that only a little over 1,000,000 have any education at all.

PRESSED AN ELECTRIC BUTTON

President Roosevelt Started the Machinery of the Lewis and Clark Exposition.

A VERY IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY

Vice President Fairbanks, Speaker Cannon and the Governors of Four States Were Present on the Exposition Grounds.

Washington, June 2.—President Roosevelt, in the presence of the members of his cabinet, members of the diplomatic corps and distinguished guests, pressed the button in the east room of the White House at 4:22 p. m. which formally opened the Lewis and Clark exposition at Portland, Ore. The electric flash sounded the chimes in the government building on the exposition grounds and started the machinery of the exposition. A battery of artillery stationed in the lot immediately south of the White House fired the national salute of 21 guns, beginning at the instant the president pressed the telegraph key.

Portland, Ore., June 2.—Amidst a scene of festivity and splendor never equalled in the Pacific northwest, with din and clamor of cheering thousands accompanied by booming artillery, the chiming of bells and the blaring of bands, Portland yesterday made her greatest bow to the world in the opening of the Lewis and Clark centennial exposition. The event took place under conditions presaging complete success to this commemoration of the blazing trail to "old Oregon" by Capt. Merriwether Lewis and William Clark, who, commissioned by President Jefferson, explored the great Oregon country 100 years ago.

Yesterday's celebration was participated in by the president of the United States and his representative, Charles W. Fairbanks, congressmen, army and navy officers, together with the governors of the states of California, Idaho, Washington and Oregon and multitudes of people from far and near.

MILLIONS AT STAKE.

A Contest for the $60,000,000 Estate of the Late Chemist Weightman Has Begun.

Philadelphia, June 2.—The orphans' court yesterday granted the petition of Charles E. D'Invilliers, attorney and guardian of young Martha Rogers Weightman, asking that the action of the register of wills in admitting to probate the last testament of the late William Weightman be set aside. The court ordered that the will and accompanying petition be taken from the register of wills and brought to the orphans' court for consideration. This was done, and the battle for millions is now on.

By filing the petition to the orphans' court Mr. D'Invilliers started the long heralded contest for an apportionment of the wealth of the chemist. Under the will, Mr. Weightman's daughter, Mrs. Anne M. Walker, was made the sole heir to his fortune, estimated at $60,000,000. The fight for a distribution of the estate among the grandchildren was precipitated by Mrs. Jones Wister, mother of Martha Rodgers Weightman, the only minor grandchild of the late Mr. Weightman.

The President's Southern Trip.

Washington, June 2.—President Roosevelt will start on a trip through the south next autumn on the 17th of October. This announcement was made at the White House yesterday. Coupled with it was the statement that the extraordinary session of congress which it is the intention of President Roosevelt to call, will not begin until after the November elections.

Big Land Frauds in California.

San Francisco, June 3.—The story of the land frauds in Oregon will be duplicated in California by the discovery of an elaborate system of robbery under color of law, by which means, with the help of forgery, great bodies of the public domain in Modoc and other northern counties have been brought under private ownership.

Confessed His Misdeeds.

New York, June 3.—Melville O. Wier, treasurer of the Colwell Lead Co., of this city, was arrested Friday and held for trial on complaint of the company for raising a check from $800 to $1,800. Assistant District Attorney Garvan says Wier has made a full confession of this and other misdeeds of a similar nature.

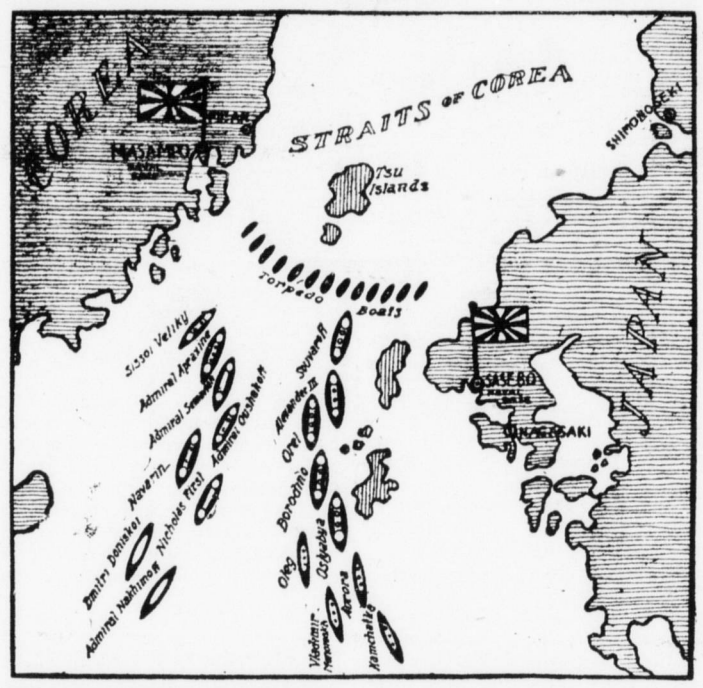
LINE OF BATTLE OF RUSSIAN FLEET AS INDICATED BY CABLE DISPATCHES.



GREAT VICTORY FOR THE JAPS

Admiral Togo's Warships Almost Annihilated the Russian Fleet Commanded by Rojestvensky.

THE LATTER WAS CAPTURED

Togo in a Report to His Government Says that 22 of the Enemy's Ships Were Either Destroyed or Captured During the Battle in the Straits of Korea.

Washington, May 31.—The latest official Japanese report on the great naval battle in the Korean Straits Saturday and Sunday is made in a cablegram received last night by the Japanese legation here from the foreign office at Tokio, conveying Admiral Togo's dispatches up to Tuesday afternoon.

The report says that Admiral Rojestvensky and another admiral and staff officers were taken prisoners on the sinking of Rojestvensky's flagship, the Kniaz Souvaroff, Saturday night south of Urleung Island, off the Korean coast.

The total number of ships lost to the Russians according to Admiral Togo now reaches 22.

The report says that the armored cruiser Dmitri Donskoi ran aground on Urleung Island; that the battleships Oslabya and Navarin were sunk; that the battleship Sissoi Veliky went to the bottom Sunday morning; that the coast defense ship Admiral Oushakoff was sunk after a vigorous pursuit, her crew being rescued; and gives other details as to vessels sunk or disabled. The Japanese Admiral, Misu, was slightly wounded. The protected cruiser Almaz, which has already arrived at Vladivostok, is referred to in the report as "suspected to have sunk."

Tokio, May 31.—The captured Russian battleship Orel arrived at the Maizuru navy yard Tuesday. The battleships Nikolai I. and Admiral Seniavin and the coast defense ironclad Admiral Apraxine have reached Sasebo.

Little hope for the Russians can be found in the latest dispatches regarding the naval battle off Tsu Island. Only four of the vessels of Rojestvensky's fleet are known to have reached Vladivostok, the cruiser Almaz and the torpedo boat destroyers Grozny, Brava and Terosiahty. The full extent of the Russian casualties in men and officers drowned, wounded or captured is not yet known.

The Japanese losses, as reported from Tokio, are only three torpedo boats sunk, three officers killed and about 200 men killed or disabled. Not one of the big fighting ships of the Japanese navy was lost. It is now definitely known that Vice Admiral Rojestvensky is captured. He is in a hospital at Sasebo, seriously wounded, but it is stated will recover.

The army in Manchuria is not yet aware of the disaster to the navy and, the dispatches say, is still praying for victory. The Russian press, with few exceptions, is openly indignant and is attacking the bureaucracy, one paper saying that "those guilty of the Russian defeat should be overwhelmed with shame." Admiral Voelkersam is supposed to have perished.

Tokio, June 1.—Admiral Togo telegraphing Tuesday said: "The naval battle fought from the afternoon of May 27 to May 29 in the vicinity of Orleung Island is called the battle of the Sea of Japan."

Admiral Togo also reports that Vice Admiral Enquist was captured with Admiral Rojestvensky. The Russian prisoners, Admiral Togo says, will exceed 3,000.

St. Petersburg, June 2.—Official reports bearing on the naval battle are beginning to be received by the emperor and Grand Duke Alexis, the high admiral, the most important of these reports revealing the fate of the cruiser Izumrud, being a telegram from her captain, Baron Ferzen, dated June 1, saying that he had blown up the cruiser at the entrance of Vladimir Bay, and briefly describing the battle.

The baron says that before dark on May 27 the Oslabya, Alexander II and Borodino had been sunk, and the Kniaz Souvaroff, the Kamtchatka and the Ural had been seriously damaged and were lost to sight. The command then devolved on Admiral Nebogatoff.

In the evening the Nikolai I., the Orel, the General Admiral Apraxine, the Seniavin, the Admiral Oushakoff, the Sissoi Veliky, the Navarin, the Admiral Nakimoff and the Izumrud sailed northward, the latter being charged to transmit orders to the battleships. Two other cruisers were cut off from the fleet and were not again seen. The battleships were repeatedly attacked by the Japanese torpedo boats, especially at the extremities of the line.

Baron Ferzen says: "I was cut off from the squadron and, finding it impossible to rejoin it, resolved to make for Vladivostok. I put on full speed and the enemy's cruisers came on in pursuit. Owing to the insufficiency of my coal supply and the certainty of meeting the enemy's cruisers, I altered my course for Vladimir Bay, where I arrived on the night of May 29. At 1:30 o'clock next morning the Izumrud ran full on a reef at the entrance to the bay. Having only ten tons of coal and seeing that it would be impossible to again float my vessel, I ordered the crew ashore and blew up the Izumrud to prevent her falling into the hands of the enemy. Ten of my sailors were wounded in the battle, but the officers and the rest of the crew are all safe."

St. Petersburg is full of rumors regarding the prospects of peace, but in the best informed quarters the Associated Press was told that no definite decision had been reached. Nevertheless, it is rumored that a manifesto may be expected soon.

This manifesto, it is reported, will proclaim the immediate convocation of a national assembly to which the question of peace or war will be submitted, thereby shifting the burden of a decision from the shoulders of the emperor to the whole nation.

Tokio, June 3.—The reported sinking of the Russian cruiser Jemtchug in the recent naval battle is confirmed.

A remarkable story is in circulation about the wounded on the Orel. It is said that at the opening of the fight 200 men were killed and wounded and that the shrieks of the wounded exercised so harmful an effect that it was decided to throw the mortally wounded into the sea. One hundred and forty, it is said, were thrown overboard. Those slightly wounded were then fastened to the masts to prevent their interference with the fighting of the ship.

Washington, June 3.—The president yesterday struck a blow for peace in the far east. In a conference at the White House with Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, the president expressed the earnest hope that Russia would forthwith conclude peace with Japan. Prolongation of the war he believes will not result in victory for the Russian arms and can only serve to increase Japand's demands and render more difficult the drafting of a treaty of peace which the czar as well as the mikado can sign. The president spoke, he said, as the friend of Russia no less than of Japan and on behalf not only of the Washington government, but in the interest of humanity. Until his words have been communicated to Emperor Nicholas their effect cannot be estimated.

Errors in the New School Code.

Columbus, O., June 1.—Two errors in the new school code were discovered by the supreme court in working over the Coshocton county school cases of Fulke et al. vs. Wright and Scott vs. McCullough, which were decided Wednesday. There is nothing in the code to show when it was intended to go into effect and it does not repeal any of the old school laws. The sentence of what was intended to be the repealing clause is stopped short of completion and the words "Be and the same are hereby repealed" are absent from the code.

Post Succeeds Parry as President.

Chicago, June 3.—D. M. Parry yesterday resigned and C. W. Post was elected to the presidency of the National Citizens' Industrial Association of America at a meeting of the executive committee. This action was taken at the request of Mr. Parry. Following his appointment to the presidency Mr. Post named James A. Emory, of San Francisco, as secretary of the association, the headquarters of which will be in New York City. The association, Mr. Post declared, would at once begin the organization of Citizens' associations.

REJECTED THE FRICK REPORT

Equitable Society's Directors Refuses to Endorse Coke King's Criticisms.

FRICK RESIGNS AS A DIRECTOR

The Directors Request Mr. Hyde to Divest Hihself of Control of the Stock of the Society, Within Three Months—Mr. Hyde Made a Bitter Speech.

New York, June 3.—Disputed claims of victory by the conflicting factions in the Equitable Life Assurance Society and an apparent readjustment of interests marked the meetings of the directors of the society held Friday for the purpose of passing on the report of the committee of seven, of which H. C. Frick is the chairman.

The only positive results of the meeting, of which official announcement was made, were the rejection of the report of the Frick committee by a large majority, the resignation of Mr. Frick from the board of directors and the passage of the resolutions embodied in the following statement given out by the directors after the final adjournment:

"The board after full discussion and after replies on their own behalf to the committee by President Alexander, Vice President Hyde and Vice President Tarbell, on motion of Mr. Schiff adopted the following resolutions:

"(1)—That a chairman of the board be created, with plenary powers over all departments and affairs of the society.

"(2)—That a nominating committee consisting of D. O. Mills, John A. Stewart, A. J. Cassatt, T. Jefferson Coolidge, August Belmont, J. B. Forgan and Robert T. Lincoln be requested to report at a meeting of the board to be called on Wednesday next, a candidate for chairman.

"(3)—That at that meeting of the board the executive committee be reorganized and that appropriate amendments to the by-laws should be prepared for submission to that meeting for the purpose of carrying out these resolutions.

"(4)—That Mr. James Hazen Hyde be requested, within three months, to divest himself of the control of the stock of the society, on such terms and conditions as shall be satisfactory."

PLAYHOUSES ABLAZE.

The Avenue Theatre at Pittsburg Is Destroyed and the Grand Opera House Is Damaged by Fire.

Pittsburg, June 3.—One of the most exciting and spectacular fires that has visited Pittsburg in recent years broke out in the Avenue theatre shortly before 4 o'clock Friday afternoon and before it was subdued had completely destroyed the Avenue theatre and partially wrecked the Grand opera house adjoining, but fortunately no panic resulted and no lives were lost. The loss will reach $150,000, fully insured. The cause of the fire is believed to be traceable to crossed wires.

The Avenue was probably the oldest show house in the city and recently has been used for vaudeville. The building fronts on the south side of avenue, midway between Wood and Smithfield streets. The Grand opera house, which is partially under the same roof, extends through to Diamond street. The Avenue had been closed for several weeks and no one was in the building except the watchman, but in the opera house a matinee performance was in progress when the fire broke out. The house was about half filled, but through the prompt and systematic work of the employes the audience was gotten out without the semblance of a panic, indeed the majority did not know there was a fire until they reached the street. Several women fainted when they came to realize what might have happened.

BUSINESS BULLETIN.

Warmer Weather Is Needed in Order to Restore Normal Conditions.

New York, June 3.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

Warmer weather is needed to restore normal conditions, both in trade circles and on the farms. The season opened bright with promise, dealers preparing for a heavy spring business, but abnormally low temperature and excessive moisture retarded consumption, and burdensome stocks must be carried over unless accumulations are reduced by clearance sales at bargain prices. A few weeks of hot weather would greatly improve the situation, particularly as to the agricultural outlook, which would be reflected in other industries very promptly.

A little weakness is noted in pig iron, but most lines of finished steel are in good demand and confidence is expressed in results a month hence, unless there should be a serious controversy regarding wages.

Failures this week in the United States are 198, against 220 the corresponding week last year. Failures in Canada number 29, against 20 last year.

Land Warrant Thief Is Indicted.

Washington, June 3.—Louis R. Smith, of North Carolina, formerly an employe in the general land office, was indicted Friday by the grand jury of the District of Columbia, on a charge of abstracting and selling 35 land warrants worth about $5,000. Smith made a confession.

Hospital Will Cost $8,500,000.

New York, June 3.—Plans for a reconstructed Bellevue hospital at a cost of $8,500,000 were approved yesterday. The first contracts will be awarded next week.

ATAXIA IS CURABLE

REPORTED CURE STANDS TEST OF FULL INVESTIGATION.

A Former Victim of Locomotor Ataxia Now Free from Suffering and Actively at Work.

"Yes," said Mr. Watkins to a reporter, "it is true that I have been cured of ataxia by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

"Are you sure you had locomotor ataxia?"

"The doctors themselves told me so. Besides I recognized the symptoms."

"What were they?"

"Well, the first indications were a stiffness about the knee joints that came on about four years ago. A few months after that appeared, my walk got to be uncertain, shaky-like. I lost confidence in my power to control the movements of my legs. Once, when I was in the cellar, I started to pick up two scuttles of coal, and my legs gave way suddenly, and I tumbled all in a heap in a basket. I couldn't close my eyes and keep my balance to save my life. Then I had fearful pains over my whole body and I lost control over my kidneys and my bowels."

"How about your general health?"

"Sometimes I was so weak that I had to keep my bed and my weight fell off twenty pounds. Things looked pretty bad for me until I ran across a young man who had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and who advised me to try them."

"Did these pills help you right away?"

"I didn't see much improvement until I had used six boxes. The first benefit I noticed was a better circulation and a picking up in strength and weight. I gradually got confidence in my ability to direct the movements of my legs, and in the course of seven or eight months all the troubles had disappeared."

"Do you regard yourself as entirely well now?"

"I do the work of a well man at any rate. I can close my eyes and stand up all right and move about the same as other men. The pains are all gone except an occasional twitch in the calves of my legs."

Mr. James H. Watkins resides at No. 72 Westerlo street, Albany, N.Y. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be obtained at any drug store. They should be used as soon as the first signs of locomotor ataxia appear in a peculiar numbness of the feet.

Similar Symptoms.

"Are you a married man?" asked the lawyer, who was doing the cross-examining.

"No," answered the witness, who had one arm in a sling and traces of the strenuous life on his face. "I was run over by an automobile last week."—Chicago Daily News.

Are the Packers Receiving Fair Play?

When the Garfield report on the business methods of the packers appeared, after eight months' investigation, it was severely criticised and roundly denounced. After three months of publicity it is significant that those who attempted to discredit it have failed to controvert the figures contained in that exhaustive document. The public is beginning to notice this omission, and the feeling is rapidly growing that the sensational charges out of which the "Beef Investigation" arose were without foundation. If the official statements of the report are susceptible of contradiction, a good many people are now asking why the facts and figures are not furnished to contradict them.

The truth seems to be that most of the charges contain unfounded sensational assertions. A flagrant example of this appeared in a recent article in an Eastern magazine, to the effect that "forty Iowa banks were forced to close their doors in 1903-4 by the Beef Trust's manipulation of cattle prices." Chief Clerk Cox, of the banking department of the Iowa State Auditor's office, has tabulated the list of banks given in the magazine article and has publicly denounced the statement as utterly untrue. He gives separately the reasons for each failure mentioned and officially states that they have been caused by unwise speculations and by reckless banking methods. It may be well to suspend judgment upon the packers until the charges against them are proved.

An Explanation.

"That man," said the proud friend, "went into politics a poor man and came out of it a poor man."

"Well," answered Senator Sorghum, "all I can say is that there must have been contributory negligence on his part."—Washington Star.

EVERY WALK IN LIFE.

A. A. Boyce, a farmer, living three and a half miles from Trenton, Mo., says: "A severe cold settled in my kidneys and developed so quickly that I was obliged to lay off work on account of the aching in my back and sides. For a time I was unable to walk at all, and every makeshift I tried and all the medicine I took had not the slightest effect. My back continued to grow weaker until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and I must say I was more than surprised and gratified to notice the backache disappearing gradually until it finally stopped."

Doan's Kidney Pills sold by all dealers or by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents per box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

REVELATIONS BY AN EX-SPEAKER

INSIDE HISTORY OF A STATE LEGISLATURE BY ONE WHO KNOWS.

The Railroad Pass Question—"Ex-Speaker's" Attitude—Use of Passes to Influence Legislation—Legislators Deluged with Demands for Passes from Prominent Constituents—"Blackmail" by Threats of Defeat—Clever Ruse by Railroads to Defeat Taxing Bill.

By an Ex-Speaker of the Legislature of One of the Largest States in the Union.
(Copyright, 1905, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Whether a member of the legislature accepts a bribe when he pockets an unsolicited railroad pass is a question which, I think, at least is open to debate. I well remember that a few days after I was first elected a member of our general assembly the mails brought me annual passes from almost every railroad which operated in my state. These bits of pasteboard, however, were good only on the lines within the boundaries of the state and each frankly bore my new title.

I accepted them as a matter of course, and in acknowledging receipt added my thanks "for the courtesy." Not then, nor now, did I think I was "selling" myself, "body and soul to a railroad corporation," and not once during my several terms did I permit possession of those much-coveted evidences of "railroad courtesy" to influence my vote.

The passes which the newly-elected house member receives without the asking are not the passes which the legislative agents of railroads issue for the purpose of securing the good will or positive aid of lawmakers. This may be news to some people, but the fact is there is a wide difference in the character of railroad passes given public officials. The annuals sent to members direct from the office of the general passenger agents are regarded by almost all members of any legislature as rightful perquisites to the office. The habit of issuing such passes has become a well-recognized custom, almost, one might say, an obligation upon the railroad companies. If the railroads stopped there we would not hear so much of the demoralizing influence of railroad passes.

But in every state capitol, when a legislature is in session, are two or more men whose business it is to see that the railroads suffer the minimum amount of harm from legislature. These agents, or lobbyists, carry with them books of passes, which they distribute with experienced discrimination where they will do their principals the most good. These men will tell you that their free transportation is more effective than filthy lucre in taking the edge off the legislative appetite. Said one of them to me:

"You can get a man in line and keep him there with a railroad pass or two when a straight offer of money would make him jump the reservation altogether."

* * * * *

Undoubtedly an immense number of passes are asked of railroads by legislators, but a very small percentage of them are issued to the lawmaker himself. They are charged up to him by the legal department of the road, but are made out in the names of his constituents. The personal and political friends and their friends and acquaintances are the men who place their representative in the position where a railroad or street car company can demand his vote for value received. The respectable citizen, the prominent business man, the well-known farmer, the leading banker, the influential lawyer by asking their member in the legislature to get free transportation for them are largely responsible for the dominating influence which railroad companies exercise over a legislature. And they all ask him for passes. They come at him from all sides with their miserable requests. They tell him flatly that he can get what they want and they expect him to do it; and these same representative citizens have started many a decent man on the road which leads to boodle.

A representative from a city district put it rather neatly when he said to me one day:

"I've just got my mail and ten of the most prominent business men in my district want to graft by proxy. They all want me to get railroad passes for them."

* * * * *

This same legislator, talking to me after a morning's session, said:

"You fellows from the country districts know nothing of the enormity of this curse of railroad passes. Here I am delivered by my honest constituents, body, boots and breeches, to the railroad companies. The noble electors who sent me here and who howl with anger every time the word 'boodle' is mentioned started out to make a boodler of me an hour after the polls closed and they learned I had been elected. And it was my own preacher who started it. He called me up on the telephone and asked me if I could get transportation for himself and his wife to a certain city and return. There is not a member here from the city whose life is not made miserable by men, most of whom are our representative citizens, who practically demand that we get either passes or half-rate privileges for them. And if we don't see our way to do it they fight us ever after. And these very men are the first to denounce us if we happen to get a little easy money down here."

If congress should pass a law compelling the railroad companies to publish the names of pass getters and users an unbelievable number of our best people would be plunged into deepest gloom, for of course the publicity would end "grafting by proxy."

* * * * *

There is no doubt that the legislative conscience is dulled by the giving of railroad and sleeping-car passes and telegraph and express franks. The favors bestowed on lawmakers by public service corporations cause them to "lean" towards those who give the favors. The commonwealth would be better served if it were made illegal for public officials of every kind to accept special favors in the way of passes and franks. And, strange as it may seem, members of legislatures would welcome such a law if they were allowed actual mileage twice a week between their homes and the state capital.

A law making illegal the issuance of passes to or on behalf of assemblymen would relieve the legislator from the incessant demands for free railroad transportation made by his constituents. And any man who has served in a general assembly will tell you that his hardest task is to write letters to railroad companies for passes for his people.

* * * * *

It is the popular idea that the "corporations" are the only interests which seek to influence legislation illegally. But blackmail, I take it, is as unlawful as bribery, and every session of a legislature sees farmers, labor unions and business men's associations endeavoring to pass or kill legislation by the use of blackmail; the blackmail of threats. The members of these great classes have no passes to give away and no money to distribute, but they have votes and organization. They demand compliance with their wishes coupled with threats of defeat at the next election for the member who does not vote their way.

Perhaps no body of citizens are so unreasonable in their demands on the legislature as the farmers. The honest tiller of the soil apparently does not care how much his bill may injure the state as a whole; it will help him or his community, and he minces no words in telling his member of the legislature that if he does not vote for it he need not expect to be reelected. There is a constant warfare between the labor unions and retail business men over the matter of the amount of exemption in garnishee suits, and each class threatens political annihilation to any member who does not vote "right." That is why almost every law which relates to suits for collection of debts is a compromise satisfactory to no one.

* * * * *

Now politicians can stand almost anything but defeat. Threats have more influence with them than money bribes. The skilled manipulators of the public service corporations know that and on one occasion, when I was speaker, adroitly used the weapon of fear to kill a bill which could not have been defeated with money.

An amendment to the revenue law came out of a house committee. It was designed to compel railroad, street car and telegraph companies to pay more taxes. The railroad lobbyists scented danger and sent hurried word to their principals. At once the customary methods were put into effect to block the bill's passage, but public sentiment in favor of it was strong and it looked as if it would go through.

Some trifling error in phraseology sent the bill back to the committee, and when it reappeared a few words had been inserted, apparently with the design of making it stronger. The addition had been made by a member of the committee at the instigation of a railroad attorney.

The seemingly trivial change, however, made the application of the bill more general than the original measure. Where before it had affected only the big corporations, it now reached every one. But no one seemed to notice the difference and the railroad attorneys at the capitol, who were acting for all the public service corporations, permitted the bill to pass one house. Then they "got busy."

The country press, fed by the corporations, showed how this once popular measure hit the farmer, and letters by the thousands poured into the state house from angry agriculturists. The presidents and secretaries of business men's and manufacturers' associations received letters, inclosing copies of the bill, which directed their attention to the fact that if it became a law their taxes would be larger. The associations were called together at once; delegations were rushed to the capitol, and in a few days the members of the legislature were listening not to arguments, but to wrathful threats.

The railroad attorneys, all this while, were out of sight stirring up the farmers, business men and manufacturers. And where before passes, franks and even money had failed to stop what was really a meritorious measure, the threats of men who were not willing to take the dose which they wanted to force down the throats of the corporations were effective. The bill was defeated and not by the railroads.

RAISES VAST POTATO CROP

Fertility of Colorado, Once Represented as Part of the Great American Desert.

Colorado, originally depicted on the maps as a part of the "Great American Desert," is now confronted with an overproduction of potatoes, beets and other farm products which the farmers find difficult to handle for want of cheap transportation. This applies particularly to potatoes, says the Chicago Chronicle.

To meet the situation, Mayor Watson, of Greeley, and a committee of citizens have shipped potatoes to eastern markets by way of Galveston and New Orleans. Such potatoes have found a market at advanced prices in New York, New Orleans and other distributing points.

The fame of these potatoes for size and quality has given the Greeley, Col., brand a preference and an extra price. During the last political campaign friends of the winning candidates clubbed together and sent carloads of potatoes to political friends in the east, especially in Chicago, St. Louis and Washington. Carloads of exceptionally large potatoes were exhibited at the world's fair in St. Louis just before the closing of the exposition.

The railroad problem has always been a drawback to farming in Colorado, and were it not for the enormous crops farmers would have turned to other pursuits. At present Colorado potato raisers are shipping large quantities of their products to points in the Indian Territory, Texas and New Mexico. The railroads running to the gulf are apparently making special inducements to procure this traffic.

The amount of money made in Colorado from potatoes, beets and onions is enormous, compared with prices obtained in the east from staple crops, such as wheat, corn and potatoes. Potatoes yield a farmer in Colorado as high as $100 an acre, sometimes much more.

HE KNEW A THING OR TWO

Didn't Intend to Leave His Old Wife Subject to Mercenary Attentions.

A north country miner, aged 73, visited a lawyer to make his will. The old man's property consisted of two small cottages which had cost him £150. The lawyer asked him how he wished to dispose of it, relates London Tit-Bits.

"Ma auld woman is to hev it all so long as she's ma widow; after that bairns to hev all," said the client.

"What age is your wife?" asked the lawyer.

"Seventy-two," was the reply.

"And how long have you been married?" was the next question.

"Over 50 years," was the reply.

The lawyer suggested that in the circumstances he should let his wife have the little property during her life, whether she remained a widow or not.

"Aa winnot! Aa winnot!" exclaimed the old man. "Aa'll hev ma aan way!"

"But surely," expostulated the solicitor, "you don't expect an old woman now over 72 would ever dream of marrying again?"

The miner looked the lawyer full in the face, and answered solemnly:

"Well, sonny, there's na knowing what young chaps like yoursel' will doe for money!"

DON'TS FOR BOY AND GIRL

Which If Observed Will Make the Pathway of Life Smoother for Themselves and Others.

Don't lose your temper because it rains on a day when you have planned for an outing. The elements cannot postpone work, but you can postpone pleasure.

Don't risk meeting with accident to prove yourself brave. Many persons are seriously hurt through foolhardiness and a desire to "show off."

Don't laugh nor talk loudly in public places, nor in any way attract undue attention. It is vulgar to force one's self on the notice of others.

Don't grow old too rapidly. The world is sweeter in youth than old age.

Don't ape the manners of the blase man or woman. It is sad to see those living who no longer take a keen interest in life. The world is full of beauty, change and goodness.

Don't linger in the hall or at the door when taking leave of host and hostess. Your call is ended when you rise to depart, and you should "stand not upon the order of going, but go at once."

Don't think it smart to be sarcastic. Rudeness is often mistaken for wit. —Brooklyn Eagle.

Not a Happy Introduction.

A lecturer who has always flattered himself that he was in the front rank of public speakers felt a trifle indignant over his introduction to a western adulence by the chairman of the committee having charge of the town lecture course. It was the opening night of the course and the chairman said: "Ladies and Gentlemen: This is, as you know, the opening night of our town lecture course. I think that most of you know that our lecture course last winter was not a financial success and we ran behind nearly $100. To avoid a recurrence of this we have this year engaged cheaper talent, the first of which will now address you."

Where Money Is Useless.

On Ascension island, in the Atlantic, money is quite useless. The island is the property of the British admiralty, and is governed by a captain. There is no private property in the land, so there are no rents, rates or taxes. The flocks and herds are public property and the meat is issued in rations. So are the vegetables grown on the farms.

The Pennsylvania State College Agricultural Experiment Station.

The report of the Pennsylvania Station for 1903-04 is just being distributed, the printing of it having been seriously delayed. The report contains a full account of the work of the year. As of special interest may be noted the experiments upon the growth of Summatra tobacco under shade, which are quite fully illustrated, the tests of varieties of wheat, oats and potatoes, the experiments upon the use of green forage crops for dairy cows and those upon the value of shelter for fattening cattle. Interesting results were also obtained in the spraying of grapes for black rot. The report of the Director calls special attention to the need of increased funds for the Station work, a need now partially supplied by the action of the Legislature appropriating $10,000 for two years for the maintenance of the Station.

The report will be sent free of charge to residents of the State, as far as the limited supply available permits.

RIGHT TIME TO CURE CATARRH.

L. Taggart Guarantees Hyomei Will Cure if Used Now.

The early summer when the weather becomes warm and settled, is the best time of the whole year to treat catarrhal troubles with the expectation of complete and lasting relief.

Everyone who has catarrh of the head and throat should know how foolish it is to try and cure it by drugging the stomach.

Until recently your physician would have said that the only way to cure catarrh would be by a change of climate but now with Hyomei you can carry a health giving climate in your purse or vest pocket, and by breathing it a few minutes four times a day soon cure yourself.

Everyone who has catarrh, or even a tendency to catarrh, should use Hyomei now, for the benefit will be gained twice as quickly and the disease thoroughly eradicated from the system.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but one dollar, and includes a neat pocket inhaler, a medicine dropper, and sufficient Hyomei for several weeks' treatment. The inhaler lasts a lifetime, and if more Hyomei is needed, extra bottles can be obtained for 50 cents.

In Emporium there are scores of well known people who have been cured of catarrh by Hyomei. If it does not cure you, L. Taggart will return your money. This is the strongest evidence he can offer as to his faith in the remedy.

Quality vs Quantity.

Hard muscles and strong body do not depend on the quantity of food you eat, but its perfect digestion and proper assimilation. When you take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure your system gets all the nourishment out of all the food you eat. It digests what you eat regardless of the condition of the stomach and conveys the nutrient properties to the blood and tissues. This builds up and strengthens the entire system. Kodol cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Belching, Sour Stomach, Weak Heart, etc. Sold by R. C. Dodson.

Some foolish people consider inebriety a mark of genious.

No Secret About It.

It is no secret, that for Cuts, Burns, Ulcers, Fever Sores, Sore Eyes, Boils, etc., nothing is so affective as Bucklen's Arnica Salve. "It didn't take long to cure a bad sore I had, and it is all O. K. for sore eyes," writes D. L. Gregory, of Hope, Tex. 25c at L. Taggart's drug store.

Letter to M. C. Tulis.

Emporium, Pa.

Dear Sir: The easiest business in this world is dry-goods; the reason is; your customers want your stuff as much as you want to sell it; they come in; you show it and sell it. That's the whole business, except your buying the goods.

Devoe comes next. It saves money, and people like money. They like somebody else's more than their own; they like to make it more than to save it; they like to keep it perhaps as well as to make it.

Buildings run-down fast, without paint; poor paint is the same. Devoe is the means of stopping that leak; a big one. All we've got to do, to sell Devoe, is to show that a man saves money by using it.

E. D. Jewell, Corry Pa., painted his house 5 years ago with a mixed paint; 14 gallons. Last spring he painted Devoe; 10 gallons. Saved $15 to $20,

Yours truly

The Rev. W. F. D. Noble, of Sinnamahoning, was in town on Tuesday, on business.

Mrs. John Kohler is visiting at Baltimore, Md., being called there to attend the funeral of a niece.

Mrs. Edward Blinzler and two children are visiting at Mrs. Blinzler's parents at St. Marys.

Mrs. J. P. McNarney and son Wilford left last Saturday for Elkhart, Ind., to visit her sister and family.

Matthew Phoenix, of Cameron, was in Emporium on Saturday, making arrangements to visit in Missouri for a few weeks.

Patsey Morrissey and Geo Ritchie have taken the contract of painting the furnace stack and are now at work. The stack is 180 feet high.

Mrs. Jas. L. Norie and children went to Renovo on Saturday to visit relatives for some days. James went down with them to spend Sunday.

Rev. L. B. Twichell takes for his text on Sunday night the words, "He was lame on both his feet." Service a single hour. Cordial invitation extended.

The rain and wind storm Monday evening was a very severe blow, many trees being blown down. The storm played havoc with the electric wires and as a consequence part of the town has been in total darkness ever since.

John Kackenmeister accompanied his wife and daughter to Williamsport last Saturday where they will visit a short time with Mr. Kackenmeister's parents. John spent Sunday at his old home.

S. E. Emmons, of Lewiston, Maine, Post-office Inspector, visited Emporium on Tuesday and of course found postmaster Seger right up-to-date. The PRESS enjoyed a visit from the gentleman, accompanied by Mr. Seger.

Alex McAuley, who conducts the Howard farm at Elk Lick, was in town yesterday and called on the PRESS and placed his name among our subscribers for one year. Alex enjoys his farm life, having a good farm and comfortable surroundings.

Our old friend S J. Fee, who for a number of years sold goods for William Heyser, Baltimore, with headquarters at Emporium is now located at Baltomore, where he has charge of the shipping department for Mr Heyser. His old customers here will be sure of getting a square deal and the best goods on the market by sending their orders to his house.

Geo. J. LaBar, one of Emporium's prominent merchants, and Pierce Fitz, a member of the Emporium Machine Company, were visitors in the Capital City on Monday. They were very much bewildered to see so many improvements, but finally secured a guide, who took them about to see the sights, and finally delivered them to the station in time for the next train, strictly sober.—Ridgway Advocate.

J. S. Douglas, of Olean, is visiting in town to-day.

E. C. Marshall of Lumber, made us a short business call this morning.

Is It Right.

Is it right that a property-owner should lose $4.20 to let a dealer make 50 cents? A dealer makes more on fourteen gallons of ready for use paint, at $1.50 per gallon, than our agent does on eight gallons of L. & M. paint and six gallons of linseed oil, which make fourteen gallons of the best paint in the world, at $1.20 per gallon; the property-owner loses just $4.20. Is it right?

It only requires 4 gallons of L. & M., and 3 gallons linseed oil to paint a moderate sized house.

HOW GERM DISEASES START.

People With Weak Stomachs in a Continual State of Danger.

Nearly all disease germs that find lodgment in the sysmtem gain entrance with the air we breathe, or through our food and drink.

If the stomach and digestive organs be weak, so that food does not readily digest, they will contain a sour, slimy fermenting mass, an ideal spot for the disease germs to grow and spread through the whole system.

People with a weak stomach are in a continal state of danger, and they should use the best means, Mi-o-na, to strengthen that organ and tone up the whole digestive system. This remedy is a certain cure for all diseases of the stomach excepting cancer. Used before each meal, it so strengthens the whole digestem system that you can eat what you want and all you want without fear of indigestion. There will be no fermentation of food, and the stomach and intestines will be to clean and pure that disease germs cannot possibly live, when Mi-o-na is used.

If you suffer with headache, backache, variable appetite, nausea, gnawing at the pit of the stomach, sallow skin, heartburn, furred tongue, sleeplessness, and general debility. It shows that the stomach has been overworked and weakened.

A fifty cent box of Mi-o-na tablets will give quick and speedy relief.

Ask L. Taggart, one of the most reliable drugists in Emporium, to show you the strong guarantee under which he sells Mi-o-na.

It is easy to be resigned to another's woes.

OUR SERIAL.

ADVICE TO A FOOL.

If the world don't do exactly as you think it ought to do,
Get mad;
If you meet with opposition, get a tooth-
some rag to chew—
Get mad;
Get as mad as hops and show it;
Feed your anger; fan it, blow it;
Pout and let the whole world know it—
Get mad;

If the joke you tried to spring upon the other fellow turns,
Get mad!
If you get the poker's portion that invariably burns,
Get mad;
Play the baby, whine and blubber
Like the rankest kind of lubber.
While the gamins guy and rubber—
Get mad!

If you step upon a 'nanner peel and stand
upon your skull,
Get mad;
Never smile and make a joke of it, or folks will think you dull—
Get mad;
Turn and frown upon the spot
Where the pavement quickly shot
Up and gave you such a swat—
Get mad!

If you want to be a pleasure to the world
you're living in,
Get mad;
If you'd keep the people's faces wrinkled
always with a grin,
Get mad;
For there's nothing else so funny
On this mundane sphere, my honey,
As the man that's never sunny—
Get mad!

A ROSE OF NORMANDY

By WILLIAM R. A. WILSON

CHAPTER II.—CONTINUED.

"Get up, you rogue, or I shall turn you over to the authorities for an escaped prisoner," was Tonti's reply, as he stepped back with hand leaning on his weapon, so as to have it ready for another outbreak. "Why and how do you come here, who are you, and what do you want?"

The man arose and stood facing him with a respectful air, as he replied:

"Why do I come? A cornered mouse makes scant choice of holes. How? Over the roofs. My name? Jean Pompon Comarin, a votre service, Monsieur; usually called Pompon for short by my intimates, a privilege I gladly extend to you." (A muttered "Peste! much I want of your privileges" from Tonti.) "My present residence is an unknown quantity; for the past six years one of the lowermost dungeons of the Bastille. My wants? Simple: merely food and a hiding-place. I sought first to frighten you, thinking you to be as big a fool as those simple-minded children out there." He pointed out the window to the square where the crowd had been. "Then, thinking you were an ally of Colbert, I sought to kill you; finding you neither, I wish to be your friend."

For a moment Tonti stared at his companion, then, glancing at his outstretched hand and impudent smile, he placed his sword on the table, fell into his chair, and, lying back with one leg thrown over its arm, laughed until the tears blinded him and coursed down his cheeks.

"Ventre Saint Gris! but I would not have missed this exhibition, no, not for a thousand pistoles. What a face and ears and teeth and—cospetto! in a moment he is changed from a devil into a man. Then, too, his story—ha, ha! 'A cornered mouse makes scant choice of holes,' not badly spoken. I may call him 'Pompon' if I choose; he wishes to be my friend. I am overwhelmed with honors. But look you, friend Pompon," here he sat up and his face became sober as a thought seemed to strike him, "do you not admit that you are the prisoner about to be executed that I saw but a short while back carried along by the frightened crowd?"

The man nodded.

"How did you get your wrists untied?"

"Some friendly hand cut the rope while I was struggling in my escape."

"And where got you yon dagger that you seemed so anxious to present me with a moment ago?"

"The same friendly hand that loosed me slipped it into my palm as I passed by. Entering an empty building, I hid upon the roof. I crept along to this house, and looking over the edge, I saw the casement open, and hearing no sound, thought the room was vacant. Knowing that as long as darkness continued I would escape detection by any in the street below, I lowered myself in."

"Well done, Pompon; it seems that thou hast something besides popping eyeballs in that head of thine. Dame! if your plight does not appeal to me. Since when have you eaten and drunken?"

"Not since yesterday morning, Monsieur."

"Hein! then you must first of all be filled. Open yon door and from the shelf get the remains of a game-pie and that bottle of wine you will find there. 'Tis all I have, but you may share."

The man obeyed; and after draining a glass of red wine, he closed the closet door without touching the pie, and, going to the window, peered forth.

"It is a bold mouse that makes its nest in the cat's ear," he said, as he pointed to a group of soldiers who issued from a neighboring house, entered the next, and disappeared.

"Ma foi! a search party!" ejaculated Tonti. "'Tis only a short time before they will be here. What shall I do with you? You are too large for my closet, and there is nothing else in which you could hide."

"Perhaps Monsieur has clothes I could disguise myself in."

"Yes, I have here," as he opened a drawer in the wardrobe, "the garb of an Italian fisherman I brought with me to Paris for a servant. But my money went; then he did also."

"An empty purse frightens away friends," Pompon remarked.

"Peste! Yes, 'tis the way of the world. Here they are, but you will need a stain of some sort for your face. Six years in the Bastille does not give the tan that the sun does on the Bay of Naples. While you dress I shall try and find something."

"Go into the first cabaret on the Rue de la Tanerie, and whisper in the ear of the cabaretier the words 'Remember sixty-four,' tell him what you want, and he will give it to you."

Tonti heard this with a look of surprise, but wasted no time. He soon returned with a bottle of the desired dye. Pompon meanwhile had exchanged his prison garments for those of a Neapolitan peasant. A touch here and a twist there from Tonti soon made him right. The stain which Pompon skilfully applied, and a red kerchief about his head so arranged as to hide in a great measure the scar on his forehead, altered his appearance so that Tonti himself was astounded.

"Mille tonnerres!" he exclaimed. "I defy even your jailer to recognize you now. When they come you can play the servant, busy in the dark corner there polishing my sword. I shall pretend that you are dumb. If spoken to, make signs, and do not be surprised if I address you in Italian. Now take your place and we can talk until the party arrives. Tell me your story. 'Twill help pass the time."

So saying, he tipped his chair back, and with his feet on the table looked the comfortable listener that he was. Pompon, after placing the bottle of wine and a glass near his elbow, retired to the corner indicated, and, taking the sword, began to rub it vigorously.

"Since Monsieur wishes it," he began, "I shall tell him what I can. That is small enough return for his saving my life now. I was born in

YOU ACTED YOUR PART TO PERFECTION.

Provence, not far from Marseilles. 'A child born in the new moon will encounter great perils in life' is a well-known Provencal saying. It was surely true in my case, for my whole life can be best described in one sentence—'Out of the pan, into the coals.' Not to weary you, I shall skip the early years up to the time I entered the service of M. Fouquet."

"The late superintendent of finance?" interrupted Tonti in some surprise.

"The same. For ten years I was one of his confidential servants. When M. Colbert, as intendant, set about to ferret out something by which he could cause M. Fouquet's downfall, I was employed to watch M. Colbert. He was too strong for us. You know the rest; how M. Fouquet was finally disgraced and confined in the fortress at Pignerol. Whether he be dead or no (le bon Dieu rest his soul!) I know not. Colbert wished to be revenged on me for having thwarted his plans so long, but could do nothing until he got one of his creatures, an innkeeper Feriol, to swear that I had tried to induce him to join me in a plot to murder the king. This was excuse enough, so after five years' imprisonment in the Bastille, I was sent to the galleys in the hope that I would be killed. After three years of that life I escaped, was recaptured, and sent back to the Bastille. That was six years ago. They tried their utmost there to incite me to violence so that they could have a new excuse to execute me. They dared not kill me without some cause, for many of M. Fouquet's friends are alive still, and wield sufficient power to make it hazardous for even Colbert to attempt anything like that without some shadow of legal right. They finally succeeded, however. A fellow-prisoner, a feeble old man whose cell adjoined mine, was so ill-treated before my very eyes that I grew reckless and killed his assailant in my rage at their inhumanity. Hence my condemnation and attempted execution to-day."

"Well done, mon brave," cried Tonti. "Just what I should have done myself. A feeble old man—sangue di Dio! It makes by blood boil to think what my poor old father may be this moment suffering. He incurred the displeasure of the king and mazarin, and was imprisoned while I was away on my first campaign. No word can I get of him. No, not even the place of his imprisonment. Ah! Louis! Louis! you accept the oath of the son to fight for you, to die for you, and yet the nobler father lies languishing in some slimy dungeon, his services unrewarded, his very name forgot. Mon Dieu! and if it were not for my oath and my father's last words to me that in the years to come the king would need the service of every loyal heart and wrist, I vow by Saint Denis, and the finger bone of holy Sainte Anne I saw at Rome, I would try my sword whether or no it could pierce the stone you wear in place of a heart—Ha! I hear the sound of soldiers on the stairs. To work, Pompon, and may Saint Anthony of Padua carry us through in safety!"

A loud knock at the door and a gruff voice crying, "Open, in the king's name!" He hesitated, then began to sing. A second call, more peremptory than the first, followed.

"Hola!" he exclaimed in a loud tone, "I believe I heard some one at the door. Entrez! whoever you are." And thus speaking, he turned his head and looked over his shoulder at an officer of the guards who stood in the doorway, while the heads of three soldiers were seen behind him.

"Diamine!" he cried in well-feigned surprise. "Soldiers! And led by my old friend Bertrand. Sit here, mon ami, and tell me how you came to find me out."

The officer addressed, as fine a specimen as any in the king's service, gave him his hand and shook it heartily, laughing as he did so.

"Mon Dieu! Captain de Tonti, where did you come from? You were far from my thoughts, mon ami, when I entered. I knew not that you lodged here. I am after different game. I am on a hangman's errand. That accursed criminal that escaped in the crowd in the square below is supposed to be in hiding somewhere near, and I am detailed to give all the houses in the vicinity a careful search. Have you seen or heard anything of the rascally rogue?"

"Not I" said Tonti. "Neither rogue nor rascal have I seen this day. No one has been here save my servant Jacopo and myself. We two are a jolly company. He has no tongue, hence cannot answer back when I scold him. Wait until I tell him to fetch another glass. Hola! Jacopo!"—then he muttered an Italian phrase that was unintelligible to his companions. At this the supposed servant arose, and, placing a second glass on the table, retired to his corner without uttering a sound. Bertrand looked at him sharply, then turned to Tonti and said:

"Where got you yon pirate? From one of your Mediterranean campaigns?"

Tonti noticed his glance, but said nothing until he had carefully filled his friend's glass and then his own.

"Ma foi! You would call him pirate in truth did you but know his history. Some day I shall tell it you. It is too long to begin now. Dame! but I believe I did hear some slight sound on the roof an hour or more ago. I thought it but the scurrying of rats; they are plentiful enough here, God knows. Perchance, though, he whom you seek is up there. Let your men search the roofs and chimneys while you tarry here with me until their return."

The temptation was strong, and Bertrand, after giving an order to the men, sat down with his chair facing the open door so that he could see if any one appeared in the passageway.

"How like you my lodging?" cried Tonti, merrily. "I regret that the tapestries and hangings are down to be cleaned to-day, while the carved furniture has all been sent to be polished for a levee I intend to hold next week. Then, too, see what a view in two directions. Fresh air is healthful, my leech tells me, while the higher up one lives, the nearer Heaven. How now, man, why so sad?" he continued, as he saw that his companion did not enter into the spirit of his talk.

"Ah me!" sighed the burly guardsman. "'Tis the same old tale: a pretty face; an insolent fellow's sneer; a quarrel; a duel."

"Mordioux!" exclaimed Tonti, in mock horror. "Know you not of the king's edict against duelling? For shame, a guardsman too!" and giving way to a burst of merriment, he laughed and beat the table with his fist.

"You would have done the same yourself," replied his friend, ruefully. "Such features! Such eyes! Such teeth! What mischievous glances, and what a slender waist!"

"Come, tell me all about it," argued Tonti, as he realized the necessity of keeping the guardsman interested until the return of his men. "Is she court-bred?"

"No. Methinks a flower from Brittany or Poitou."

"Tall, fair, and gentle-born?"

"Yes, and regal as a queen."

"Her name?"

"I know not; only this: she has the protection of Mademoiselle, the adoration of all true men and the hate and envy of all the court ladies."

"So wondrous beautiful," mused Tonti. "Then the king will get her."

"No. For Mademoiselle loves not her royal cousin overmuch at present, and will see to it that he gains no sight of her. I have seen her but once myself, and that at a distance. 'Tis but few have even that privilege."

"Ah well, mon ami, you may win her yet.—Hein! here are your men returning from their rat-hunt empty handed. Remember, though, the proverb we have in Tuscany: 'In buying a horse and in taking a wife, shut your eyes tight and commend yourself to God.'"

Bertrand laughed, and emptying his glass, arose and joined his men, saying in parting: "Don't let your pirate stray far from home, mon cher Tonti, or some one will arrest him on suspicion," and was soon clattering down the stairs.

Tonti waited until they had time to gain the street when he laughed gayly at his companion.

"Parole d'bonneur! mon cher, Pompon, but you acted your part to perfection. I shall recommend you to M. Racine for a place in his next tragedy; or perhaps the king would have you in a masque or ballet."

"Your speech, too, was excellent, Monsieur," responded Pompon. "You know that love, bravery, and necessity make men good orators. But tell me one thing, Monsieur. That guardsman called you Capt. de Tonti. Is that your name?"

"Certainement," was the reply. "Henri de Tonti, captain in the king's forces in his Italian campaigns."

"You spoke of a father being in captivity," persisted his questioner.

"Yes, my father, Lorenzo Tonti, was a Neapolitan banker, but siding with the people in a rebellion, he was compelled to flee to France. He proposed to Mazarin a plan of insurance that would fill the empty coffers of the king, if successfully conducted. The Cardinal, anxious to have all the credit himself, carried out my father's plans only in part. Failure was the result, and the anger of a hateful minister and a mortified king was visited upon him. He was imprisoned while I was away on my first campaign. I have searched and pleaded for information of his whereabouts in vain. Thinking I might gain favor with the king and thus influence him to release my father, I have accepted post after post of danger and difficulty and been victorious. But appeals to his justice and generosity have alike been to no purpose. A second trial was made of my father's scheme by Mazarin before his death. They adhered to his plan strictly and were successful. The king's treasury was full enough to commence a foreign war; his minister was rewarded; the brain that contrived and the hand that planned were allowed to remain languishing behind a prison door."

Pompon listened attentively with a strange light in his eyes. When Tonti had finished speaking he said slowly and with a tone of conviction:

"My gray-haired prison friend was your father."

"Ah, Cielo!" exclaimed Tonti, starting up. "The one for whom you slew the jailer?"

"The same."

With one leap Tonti seized his arm roughly, and eagerly inquired: "And he, where is—"

Pompon shook his head sadly. "It was for no purpose. I saved him from a beating, but it was too late. I heard of his death ten days later."

"His death?" cried Tonti in despair.

"Yes; starvation."

All energy seemed to depart from the young man's frame and his chin fell upon his chest in grief. "My father dead!" he murmured. "A prison life; an outcast's burial! How bitter the wage for a faithful servant."

The first shock of his emotion past, he raised his head, while his eye flashed in sudden anger.

[To Be Continued.]

Made His Nurse Tell Her Age.

"I've got an 8-year-old boy at home that will make either a metaphysician or a detective—I'm not sure which," remarked a downtown lawyer, as he entered his office the other morning. "The kid's just getting over an attack of measles, and has hard work amusing himself. Yesterday his mother and the nurse were in the room, and he spoke up sudden, much to the embarrassment of his mother:

" 'Say, ma; I know how old nurse is.'

"His mother thought the nurse might be confused; but she wasn't.

" 'How do you know so much, Willie?" she asked.

"Well, I asked you once how many years you have been nursing, and you said five. Then when you forgot that I asked you how old you was when you went to the training school, and you said 18. Then by and by, I asked you how long you was in school, and you said four years. Now, 18 and and four and five are 27—see?' "—N. Y. Tribune.

Advantages of Polygamy.

A young Mormon woman, modest and intelligent with clear, honest, gray eyes, deplored the prohibition of polygamy. "We lose something the last generation had," she said. "Our family would have seemed lopsided with only one mother. And was it not worth something to us children that we had to divide everything—even our father?" She said she would not object to marrying a polygamist if she loved him, though she confessed she would a little rather be the first wife. When asked if he would be willing to have his daughter marry a plurist, her father said he would prefer it. She would be conforming to the laws of the church, besides which she would be marrying a tried man, one already proven to be a good husband.—Leslie's Magazine.

Wanted Them All.

A well-known author was once talking with a dilapidated bachelor, who retained little but his conceit. "It is time now," he said, pompously, "for me to settle down as a married man, but I want so much. I want youth, wealth, of course, beauty, grace——"

"Yes," said his fair listener, sympathetically. "you poor man, you do want them all."—Tit Bits.

Wise Woman.

"Now for two dollars," announced the test medium, "I'll sell you a philter that will make your husband love you to the exclusion of all others."

"I don't think I'll invest," said the practical housewife, "but if you have a philter that'll make him bring home some of his salary on pay days I'll allow you a percentage on the amount realized."—Pittsburg Post.

Just Discrimination in Railway Rates

All railroad men qualified to speak on the subject in a responsible way are likely to agree with President Samuel Spencer, of the Southern railway, when he says: "There is no division of opinion as to the desirability of stopping all secret or unjustly discriminatory devices and practices of whatsoever character."

Mr. Spencer, in speaking of "unjustly discriminatory" rates and devices, makes a distinction which is at once apparent to common sense. There may be discrimination in freight rates which is just, reasonable and imperatively required by the complex commercial and geographical conditions with which expert rate makers have to deal. To abolish such open and honest discrimination might paralyze the industries of cities, states and whole sections of our national territory.

This distinction between just and unjust discrimination is clearly recognized in the conclusions of the International Railway Congress, published yesterday:

"Tariffs should be based on commercial principles, taking into account the special conditions which bear upon the commercial value of the services rendered. With the reservation that rates shall be charged without arbitrary discrimination to all shippers alike under like conditions, the making of rates should as far as possible have all the elasticity necessary to permit the development of the traffic and to produce the greatest results to the public and to the railroads themselves."

The present proposal is, as Mr. Walker D. Hines, of Louisville, showed in his remarkable testimony the other day before the senate committee at Washington, to crystallize flexible and justly discriminatory rates into fixed government rates which cannot be changed except by the intervention of some government tribunal, and by this very process to increase "the temptation to depart from the published rate and the lawful rate in order to meet some overpowering and urgent commercial condition."—New York Sun.

TWO OPEN LETTERS

IMPORTANT TO MARRIED WOMEN

Mrs. Mary Dimmick of Washington tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well.

It is with great pleasure we publish the following letters, as they convincingly prove the claim we have so many times made in our columns that Mrs.

Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., is fully qualified to give helpful advice to sick women. Read Mrs. Dimmick's letters.

Her first letter:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I have been a sufferer for the past eight years with a trouble which first originated from painful menstruation—the pains were excruciating, with inflammation and ulceration of the womb. The doctor says I must have an operation or I cannot live. I do not want to submit to an operation if I can possibly avoid it. Please help me."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, Washington, D. C.

Her second letter;

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"You will remember my condition when I last wrote you, and that the doctor said I must have an operation or I could not live. I received your kind letter and followed your advice very carefully and am now entirely well. As my case was so serious it seems a miracle that I am cured. I know that I owe not only my health but my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to your advice. I can walk miles without an ache or a pain, and I wish every suffering woman would read this letter and realize what you can do for them."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, 59th and East Capitol Streets, Washington, D. C.

How easy it was for Mrs. Dimmick to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and how little it cost her—a two-cent stamp. Yet how valuable was the reply! As Mrs. Dimmick says—it saved her life.

Mrs. Pinkham has on file thousands of just such letters as the above, and offers ailing women helpful advice.

GRAVEL ROADS.

A Suggestive Talk on the Methods of Improving the Highways of the Country.

By careful experimentation it has been found that the force required to draw a load of 2,240 pounds (inclusive of the wagon) over a good dirt road, is 200 pounds; over a gravel road, 143 pounds; over a macadam road, 65 pounds; over a plank road, 41 pounds. Plank roads, Telford roads and macadam roads are too expensive for most rural villages, though we find them in some, and generally out of the question in the open country. But the gravel road is a possibility and is actually in use in thousands of localities.

Gravel roads need not be excessively expensive, but the cost will, of course, vary according to cost of gravel and distance it has to be drawn. Riding with a farmer in Illinois last fall, the writer had pointed out to him a good-sized hill composed almost entirely of gravel, which was used for road building in several directions. The owner of the hill was selling the gravel at a price low enough to make it an inducement for the road commissioners to purchase it and haul it onto the roads. The said commissioners did not attempt to gravel the road for its whole width, but made the graveled driveway about 12 feet wide. As they had a good foundation naturally, and as the road was flanked by good ditches on each side, the gravel became an almost impervious cap to the road, turning the water easily in both directions, for it had in it a small percentage of soil and had been rolled hard. The farmers in the vicinity were very proud of their work, and a number of them had subscribed $50 each in addition to their road tax to help push the work along. The road shortened the distance to town very materially and reduced the cost of hauling all produce, for it was only within recent years that the great deposit of gravel was touched.

There are in the middle and western states immense quantities of such gravel. Usually the soil over those deposits is of no great value for agricultural purposes, as the porous condition of the substrata makes it difficult to retain enough moisture in the soil for plant needs. These deposits should therefore be used for the construction of roads where such improvements are needed. Where it is possible to purchase such gravel at a low price it will pay a township much better to use the gravel in the construction of roads than to continue to remake the roads with dirt surface each year.

The state with deep alluvial soil, such as Illinois and Iowa, have very bad roads. A government report says that on this account Illinois has the worst roads of any state in the union. In some sections there are no gravel deposits and gravel must be hauled in over the railroads. In such cases it becomes necessary to make the graveled roadbed as narrow as possible. This can be accomplished by having the gravel roadbed just wide enough for use by the wheels of an ordinary carriage or wagon and have the graveled strip paralleled by an earth roadbed. This latter arrangement is seen in certain parts of Illinois. The earth roadway gives room for turning out when two teams meet on the graveled strip, and in some parts of the summer the dirt road is preferred for use by the drivers of light wagons.

The drainage of the road must be provided for and the dirt foundation should be packed hard by using a steam roller. On the top of this foundation, gravel to the depth of four inches should be put on and rolled till it is not more than three inches in thickness. On top of this should be put another four inches and that, too, should be rolled hard, making a bed six inches in thickness. This plan of course must be modified to suit circumstances, as there are roads with naturally such good foundation that far less than this amount of gravel is required to make a satisfactory surface.

Sore Shoulders.

After a horse has perspired freely it is good practice to bathe the shoulders thoroughly with cold water, to which has been added a little salt, and the shoulders then rubbed until dry. If, after this precaution has been taken, the collar is brushed or scraped until thoroughly clean before being put on again and a little trouble taken to lift it forward off the shoulder when the horse is standing, to allow a circulation of air and then carefully replaced, being careful that no mane is allowed between the collar and shoulder, it is seldom sore shoulders will result.—Midland Farmer.

The Truth Breaks Out.

"Now, of course, doctor," said the man upon whose eye the operation had been performed, "I respect your skill highly, and all that; but doesn't it seem, even to you, a little too much to charge $50 for doing a bit of work that occupied you about five minutes?"

"My good sir," said the great oculist, hastening to the defense of himself and his profession, "you don't realize that in acquiring the skill to perform such an operation in five minutes I have spoiled perhaps two bushels of eyes quite as valuable as yours!"—N. Y. Times.

Observations.

In Record Time.

Piney Flats, Tenn., May 29th.—(Special)—Cured in two days of Rheumatism that had made his life a torture for two years, D. S. Hilton, of this place, naturally wants every other sufferer from rheumatism to know what cured him. It was Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"Dodd's Kidney Pills are the grandest pill on earth," says Mr. Hilton, "I would not take any sum of money for what they did for me. For two years I had what the doctors called rheumatism. I could hardly walk around in the house. It seemed to be in my back and hip and legs. I tried everything but nothing helped me till I got Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"Two days after I took the first dose all pain left me and it has never come back since. I can't praise Dodd's Kidney Pills too much."

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. Healthy kidneys take all the Uric Acid out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills make healthy kidneys.

Where Old Ocean's Salty Breezes Blow—An Ideal Summer Territory.

Long Island as a summer resort grows in popularity each year, for once a dweller on this exceptionally favored Atlantic Coast Island always a dweller is the rule; its natural attractions are marvelous in variety, its South or Ocean Shore is most widely known, for here the surf bathing is particularly fine and the sweltering heat, so often encountered at other Atlantic points, is a thing unknown, because this beautiful Island alone trends East and West directly across the Summer South winds, blowing fresh and cool over the Atlantic.

It has besides the open ocean the Great South Bay and other inland seas further to the east, where safe sailing and still salt water bathing is at its best.

On the North or Sound Shore the attractions of salt water are also most excellent; the surf of course is lacking, but instead this shore has bluffs and hills treeclad to the high water mark.

Fishing both in fresh and salt water is a noted attraction of Long Island.

Golf and tennis enthusiasts are splendidly cared for, as L. I. links and courts are unsurpassed.

The splendid system of highways has always attracted the rider, driver and automobilist.

Hence, all in all, for rest or sport afoot or ashore no coast resort has more to offer.

He who rides a hobby thinks he is entitled to the middle of the road.—Chicago Daily News.

Who Is Pusheck?

One reads so much about Dr. Pusheck and the wonderful cures achieved by his Kuro, that everybody is interested to know more about him. WORK THAT TELLS

The Kind That Brings Real Success Is Done with a Healthy Body and Brain.

How can you expect to do the best work of which you are capable with either brain or body if you don't have that real health and good feeling, that vim and force that comes from perfect digestion? Egg-o-See is not a medicine; simply a perfect food. Easily enough assimilated for the invalid, yet containing enough nutriment to sustain the greatest physical exertion. Try it for breakfast and lunch and do away with grease and soggy cereals and see how almost magical is the effect. You'll find real pleasure in its eating, it is so crisp and palatable that you will want it again. It brings the right kind of energy for real success.

EGG-O-SEE is a food especially adapted to people living in the smaller towns and country districts, because of the abundance of rich cream at hand.

Nearly Everybody Eats it Now.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PAINT.

Important Memorandum.—The paint is the most important factor in painting. A $40.00 (gallon) job, complete, done by a good painter, with the best quality of paint, coming at $40.00 (gallon), will last five years. The same paint applied by a dauber, $20.00 labor, $20.00 paint, will last only two years. Thus the "per-year-cost" of the good painter's job is $12.00—the poor painter's, $20.00.

Above all, USE GOOD PAINT!

The oil! linseed oil! Just pure linseed is the "life"—the one great requisite of good paint for which there is no substitute—and the sure way to get the pure, fresh linseed oil is to buy the oil and separately. For every gallon of Kinloch Paint buy one gallon of linseed oil. This makes two gallons of paint, ready for use. You then know that the paint you're putting on your house is alive—"the genuine oil is in it," and paint is not paint unless it contains 50% of really pure oil. We will further explain the virtues of Kinloch Paint if you will call and see us.

Kinloch HOUSE PAINT

Peculiarity About Insurance.

When insurance companies grant insurance an life, they are particular to have the person examined by a doctor to ascertain if he is in sound health. They are most particular about the analysis of the urine for the diseases of the kidneys are the most fatal and so many people have diseased kidneys without knowing it. If there are any symptoms they are usually (even by doctors) attributed to some other cause. Thompson's Barosma is the safest remedy to take for it will do good whether you have kidney trouble or not. Thompson's Barosma gives rest to the nerves, 50c to $1.00. For sale by R. C. Dodson.

A Valuable Publication.

The Passenger Department of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has published the 1905 edition of the Summer Excursion Route Book. This work is designed to provide the public with descriptive notes of the principal Summer resorts of the United States, with the best routes for reaching them, and the rates of fare. It contains all the principal seashore and mountain resorts in New England, the Middle, Southern and Western States, and in Canada, and over seventeen hundred different routes. The book has been compiled with the greatest care, and altogether is the most complete and comprehensive handbook of Summer travel ever offered to the public.

The cover is handsome and striking, printed in colors, and book contains several maps, presenting the exact routes over which tickets are sold. The book is profusely illustrated with fine half-tone cuts of scenery at the various resorts and along the lines of the Pennsylvania Railrood.

This very interesting book may be procured at any Pennsylvania Railroad ticket office at the nominal price of ten cents, or, upon application of Geo. W. Boyd, General Passenger Agent, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia, Pa. by mail for twenty cents. 3505-16-2t.

Asbury Park Booklet.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has just issued and attractive booklet descriptive of Asbury Park. The publication is designed to present the attractions and claims of Asbury Park as a Summer seaside resort and also to announce the reduced rate arrangements on account of the meeting of the National Educational Association, which will be held at Asbury Park July 3 to 7.

Persons desiring information concerning this popular resort may obtain a copy of the booklet by enclosing two cents in postage to Geo. W. Boyd, General Passenger Agent, Pennsylvania Railroad, Philadelphia, Pa. 3506-16 2t.
